

Invitation

In Baden-Württemberg, we have set ourselves the goal of becoming a leading climate protection state. We want to show what is feasible and set standards to become climate-neutral as quickly as possible. In the transportation sector, electric mobility will play an important and decisive role in reducing emissions. In order to successfully meet the challenges ahead, we need a common approach and ambitious goals. For that reason, take advantage of the opportunities at EVS35 in Oslo for cross-industry exchange with international experts from the field of electric mobility and to establish new collaborations and partnerships.

I look forward to welcoming you personally to the Baden-Württemberg booth at the German Pavilion and to talking with you.

I wish all visitors an interesting and successful EVS35 in Oslo.
